

Siddharth
28 May 2025

Influence Quotient: 80/100

Overall Evaluation Summary

Qualitative Analysis - Positive

- You have a clear idea of your career goals and aspirations, which is evident from your statement about wanting to be a startup consultant and having your own consultant firm.
- You have taken initiatives in the past, such as 'Beyond Maths', which shows your ability to take action and explore your interests.
- You have highlighted your determination, devotion, and dedication, which are essential qualities for achieving success in any field, and it's great that you are aware of their importance.

Qualitative Analysis - Areas of Improvement

- You could improve by providing more specific examples of your technical capabilities and how they can be applied to real-world problems, which would make your profile more convincing.

- You mentioned that you don't have a dream company, which might give the impression that you are not focused on your career goals, and it would be better to have a clear idea of the companies you are interested in.
- You talked about your hobbies, but it would be more effective to relate them to your career goals or show how they can be beneficial in a professional setting, such as teamwork or problem-solving skills.
- You could work on providing more details about your experiences, such as your role as sports secretary and your involvement in technical and cultural clubs, which would give a clearer picture of your skills and abilities.
- You said 'I know it requires a lot of expertise and experiences and I am ready to harness it with my 3D i.e. Determination, Devotion and Dedication', which is a good attitude, but it would be more effective to show how you plan to acquire the necessary expertise and experiences, rather than just stating that you are ready to harness them.

Detailed Evaluation Metrics

No.	Items to look out for	5 point Scale	Remarks / Feedback
1.	Did the speaker speak with confidence? • Posture • Smile • Eye Contact • Energetic Start	3	Good Satisfactory Good Poor
2.	Did the speaker vary their tone, speed, volume?	3	You kept a mostly consistent tone and reasonable volume, but pacing could be smoother for clarity.
3.	Did they use any gestures with their hands or body while speaking?	3	Your posture and eye contact seemed strong, though your energetic movements and hand gestures could have been more pronounced.
4.	Did they have expressions on their faces?	3	You had moderate facial expressions, supported by a polite smile throughout.
5.	Who are you and what are your skills, expertise, personality traits ?	4	Yes, you introduced yourself well, highlighting your background, skills, and aspirations.
6.	Why are you the best person to fit this role?	3	You showcased relevant experiences and a strong entrepreneurial mindset, though injecting more energy could reinforce your suitability.
7.	How are you different from others?	3	Your focus on startup consulting, backed by both technical and managerial insights, sets you apart.
8.	What value do you bring to the role?	4	You bring a combination of practical startup exposure, leadership experience, and a clear vision for advising others in both the technical and management realms.
9.	Did the speech have a structure of Opening, Body and Conclusion?	4	Yes, there was a clear introduction, a main body of points, and a concluding note, though you could refine transitions.
10.	How was the quality of research for the topic? Did the student's speech demonstrate a good depth? Did they cite the sources of research properly?	3	You shared personal initiatives and goals, but there was limited citation of external research and depth.

11.	How creatively did the student present the video?	3	The presentation was straightforward and professional, though it could benefit from additional creative elements.
12.	How convinced were you with the overall speech on the topic? Was it persuasive? Will you give them the job/opportunity?	4	You were reasonably persuasive in conveying your strengths, and I would be inclined to offer you an opportunity based on your clear ambitions and focus.