Influence Quotient: 68/100

Overall Evaluation Summary

Qualitative Analysis - Positive

- You have done a good job explaining the purpose and usage of the new tool.
- You showed anticipation of user needs by acknowledging the potential requirement for a demo and the possibility of automatic reports saving user time.
- The overall explanation was coherent and easy to understand.

Qualitative Analysis - Areas of Improvement

- Try to avoid excessive use of filler words such as 'yeah' and 'um'. They can detract from your message.
- Your presentation could be more concise; try to remove repetitive phrases, such as 'we'll arrange a demo', which was mentioned twice.

- While you provided an overview, more detail could have been provided about the features and unique selling points of the tool.
- The structure of the presentation could be improved. Consider beginning with a brief summary of what you will discuss, then detailed explanations, and a summary at the end.
- Your call-to-action was not concise. Instead of leaving it open-ended with 'I guess it would be good', direct the listener with a clear action, like 'please test it and provide feedback'.

Detailed Evaluation Metrics

No.	Items to look out for	5 point Scale	Remarks / Feedback
1.	Did the speaker speak with confidence? • Posture • Smile • Eye Contact • Energetic Start	3	Satisfactory Satisfactory Good Poor
2.	Did the speaker vary their tone, speed, volume?	2	Your tone was consistently high which may have led to a lack of variation, it would have been more engaging to play with your volume and speaking speed to emphasize key points.
3.	Did they use any gestures with their hands or body while speaking?	3	Yes, your body language suggested confidence; however, you could use more energetic gestures to enhance the message.
4.	Did they have expressions on their faces?	4	Yes, your smile and good eye contact showed that you were engaged and interested in the topic.
5.	Who are you and what are your skills, expertise, personality traits ?	2	The speech was more about a new tool for learners rather than about your personal skills and traits.
6.	Why are you the best person to fit this role?	2	It would be difficult to assess if you fit a particular role as the speech was not focused on personal skills and attributes.
7.	How are you different from others?	2	This video did not provide much insight into how you differentiate from others.
8.	What value do you bring to the role?	3	The value you bring, according to your speech, seems to lie within your ability to introduce and guide others in new systems or tools.
9.	Did the speech have a structure of Opening, Body and Conclusion?	4	Yes, the speech had a clear structure of introduction, body, and conclusion.
10.	How was the quality of research for the topic? Did the student's speech demonstrate a good depth? Did they cite the sources of research properly?	3	Your research about the tool was noticeable, however, the depth was lacking. No sources were cited in your speech.

11.	How creatively did the student present the video?	3	The video presentation was straightforward and clear but could have used more creativity to engage the audience.
12.	How convinced were you with the overall speech on the topic? Was it persuasive? Will you give them the job/opportunity?	3	The speech was somewhat convincing. It demonstrated potential but fell short in being completely persuasive due to lack of depth and personal touch. The decision to offer a job or opportunity would depend on the specific role and requirements.
